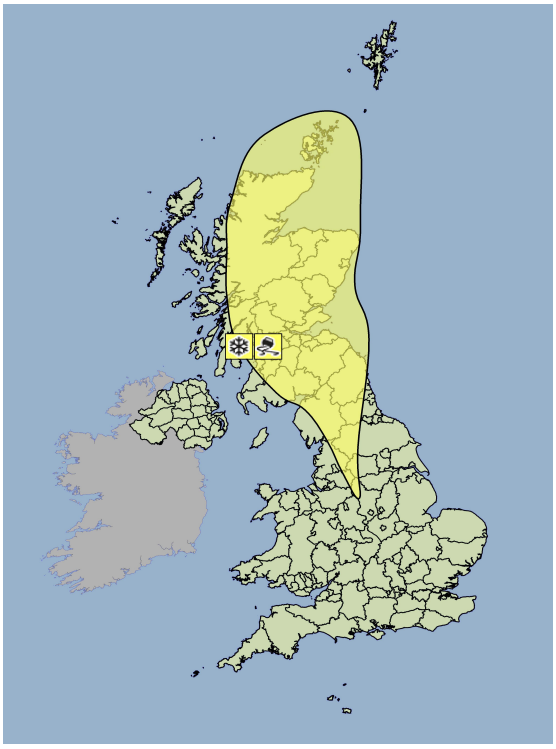
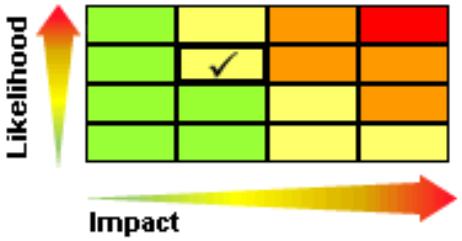
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Temperatures have fallen below freezing in places, leading to the risk of ice on untreated surfaces. Meanwhile, further snow showers are expected, mainly over high ground and across Scotland, where a further 1-3 cm of snow is possible above about 200 metres.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Snow and Ice

Valid from 03:45 on Sun, 31st Jan 2016 until 11:00 on Sun, 31st Jan 2016

Icy patches may affect untreated surfaces this morning, whilst further snow showers are likely - these mainly above 200 metres.

The public are advised to take extra care and be aware of the potential for some disruption to travel.

This is an update to reduce the size of the yellow area, removing Northern Ireland, Wales, parts of northern England and western Scotland.
